

The Newsroom - 2004

SOUTHERN Indicator

Another buyer emerges to make offer for Riviera Holdings

August 21, 2004 - Yet another buyer is taking a swing at buying Riviera Holdings Corp., a Securities and Exchange Commission filing said Friday.

Riviera Holding shareholder D.E. Shaw Laminar Portfolios, part of the New York-based D.E. Shaw Group, suggested it is interested in buying all of the outstanding stock in Riviera Holdings for $12 a share, just less than the company's closing price Friday.

Riviera Holdings owns and operates the Riviera in Las Vegas and the Riviera Casino in Black Hawk, Colo.

D.E. Shaw Group is a New York-based investment and technology-development firm with about $8 billion in total capital.

Last year, Donald Trump upped his ante in the Riviera to 10 percent, or $1.7 million. But the New York developer later said his interest was only in getting a Nevada state gaming license, and he has since sold his interest.

Also, Las Vegas investor Fabrizio Boccardi last year launched an unsolicited bid to buy Riviera Holdings, but nothing ever came of the proposed deal.

The new filing said that Laminar had also been involved in takeover discussions with Boccardi, but terminated the discussions in May. Boccardi could not be reached for comment Friday.

Laminar owns 9.7 percent of the shares and seeks the purchase on a "friendly basis," the new SEC filings said.

University of Nevada, Las Vegas professor and casino industry expert Bill Thompson said it would be a good deal for the property and the destination, as long as the company has deep pockets.

"(The Riviera) could be teetering and it's best for Las Vegas to have someone owning it who can polish it up and concentrate on the overflow from the big Strip resorts," he said.

Our Services

Applied Analysis provides professional services in urban economics, market analysis, financial advisory services, information technology and hospitality/gaming consulting services. Read More >>

Our Information

Reliable data is the foundation of any solid analysis. We are the market leader in information and research. We track economic, development and fiscal trends, and publish the area's most comprehensive office, industrial and retail market survey. Read More >>

Our Clients

Applied Analysis has a broad client base, including both public entities and private companies. We exceed our clients' expectations by taking the time to listen to their goals and then committing the time, resources, and know how to help them find success. Read More >>

Applied Gamin

operator

Brian Go consulting Las Vegas for redeve

"The inter (national)

Any purch regulatory that Lamin

Laminar it Westerna Bloomber

Riviera Hc scheduled Laminar e

Riviera Hc percent, c 120 perce

Article ©:

UPDATED 07.29.05

COPYRIGHT © 1997-2005 APPLIED ANALYSIS. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.